95 ATTEND RALLY BANQUET AT HOTEL VENDOME, BOSTON

Noted Alumni, Coach Beck And D. F. Howe Give Speeches.

Ninety Middlebury students and alumni attended the Boston Alumni Rally Banquet at the Hotel Vendome at Boston last Friday evening. Prominent alumni and persons now connected with the college spoke on various phases of college life, putting emphasis on athletics, the Tufts game being the next day. Theodore Fish '16 acted as toastmaster.

E. J. Wiley extended a greeting to those present, Ray Stevens '09, related the hardships of Middlebury's football team in the old days. Joel Lemere '16 also spoke on the same subject. D. Francis Howe, '29, talked from the students point of view on "Middlebury as it is today." Coach B. H. Beck stated the athletic situation at Middlebury and told of how other colleges get their athletes. Mrs. Caroline Paulson Vice President of the Boston Alumni Association told how the women are backing the athletics of the college. Prof. P. N. Swett concluded the list of speakers, giving some statistical data on the games between Middlebury and Tufts and praising the progress made in intramural atheltics at Middlebury in the past few years.

Director of Admissions and Personal E. J. Wiley, the first speaker on the program, extended a greeting to the alumni present at the Rally and spoke on the need of further cooperation among the alumni to aid the highly selective system of obtaining freshmen for the college. He also urged the alums to do more in the way of placing Seniors into their selected line after graduation. Mr. Wiley extended a hearty invitation to be at the Alumni Homecoming at Middlebury this week end.

Raymond Stevens '09 said, "In my day the college consisted of five buildings, the old college row Warner science and the old library. We only had 13 professors. There were no telephones in the offices, no letter files or any of the present day conveniences. The gymanisum was in what is now South Painter hall. Two baskets were the only equipment. The athletic field was where the present day hockey rink is, and games in the old days were played most always in a sea of mud. The football players had to furnish their own suits and seldom could find more than two of the same colored jerseys on the team. There were no substitutes in those days. Two or three were all that could be taken on trips." He concluded by telling of some of the teams Middle-

MEN'S RUSHING TO COMMENCE MONDAY

Fraternity rushing in the men's college formally opens Monday, November 19, at 12:40. Freshmen that live on campus shall be in their rooms at this time and off-campus men shall be on the campus at rooms previously designed by the Inter-fraternity Council.

Dates for the first two days of the week are to be made "catch as catch can," the following two days dates will be assigned by the Council; the fifth day is selection day; and the sixth day will be pledge day.

According to the Interfraternity rushing rules, there shall be no rushing between the hours of 10:30 in the evening and chapel time in the morning. All rushing shall cease at 8:00 p. m. the evening before pledge day.

Black Panther Has Slight Edge Over U. V. M. In Final Game Of State Series Saturday

By WARD S. YUNKER

Panther Team Set To Repell Vermont Attack

The Panther will be in shape for the Vermont game. This is good news to the followers of the Middlebury team because all through the season the Blue and White has been hampered by injuries. From the very start, Coach Beck has been nursing a crippled team and much of the poor showing this season can be laid directly to the fact that his men have been in poor physical condition.

Jacobs, who has been out since early in the season with ripped muscles in his shoulder has been able to take practice and will be able to get into the game with the Catamounts. If the game is played on a dry field, Jacobs should show up to advantage as he is fast and shifty.

MacNary is once again in condition and with Valois on the other wing, the Cats should find gaining through these sections hard. In case Whitman is unable to play the entire Vermont game, Webber will take his place. Webber has been playing center since Whitman was injured and has been putting up a good game.

COACH B. H. BECK

The squad came through the Tufts game without any further injuries and with the exception of Keenan, who is still laid up with a bad leg and Gruggel, who has been out of the last two games because of injuries, will be able to face Vermont at full strength.

Schmidt is out for the rest of the season, but his place will be capably

Rattan's Team Outweighs Blue and White Eleven

Although hampered by green material at the start of the year, Coach W. V. Rattan has put together a powerful outfit on the shores of Lake Champlain, and the eleven that will face Middlebury will be 100% better than the team that started the season wearing the Green and Gold. The Catamounts have lost every game on their schedule thus far, but have shown much strength in the last two games so that they can not be classed as set ups in the least.

The Kittens boast the heaviest line that they have had in years and at present time the forwards are working like veterans. Levine, a 210 pounder, is playing center in fine fashion and has proved to be a pillar of strength on the defense as well as accurate in his passing. Burnstein and Tony Scutakes, both weighing 185 pounds have been holding down the guard positions in capable fashion. Scutakes is an old Burlington High School star and is continuing his gridiron career in noble fashion.

TUFTS JUMBOS WIN FROM MIDDLEBURY PANTHERS 12 TO 0

Hingston and Phillips Play Brilliant Game For Medford Team.

GUARNACCIA STARS IN VERMONT ATTACK

Blue Threatens to Score in First and Last Periods.

The Panther clawed his way to Tufts' last chalk mark Saturday at the Medford Oval, but the new Jumbo line withstood the fierce onslaught, so that the Medford team can still boast a goal line uncrossed by any eleven in its class this year. Led by the brilliant Sammy Guarnaccia, the Blue and White put up a gallant fight, but the Tufts attack was too powerful and the defense so stubborn that in the end the Jumbo rooters were crowing over a 12 to 0 victory.

Capt. Ellis, occupying the bench, because of an injured knee, for the first time in his brilliant gridiron career at Tufts, saw his second line batter down the frontier of the visitors and smother their running attack frequently for losses.

Hingston, acting captain, instead of constantly plugging the center of the line as is his usual wont, sallied forth in a brilliant display of broken-field running. He scored both of the Jumbo touchdowns.

"Husky" Phillips, Tufts fullback, was little less impressive. He was as irresistible as Hingston in his extended dashes and it was his center rush from the visitor's 30 yard stripe to their two yard line which set the stage for Hingston's plunge for the second Tufts score.

"Sammy" Guarnaccia, brother of the famous Dave of Harvard, was a blazing star in the Middlebury backfield. His passes to Willis and McLeod accounted for several long gains and he provided the feature of the afternoon when he gathered in a double lateral pass in the first period to race 35 yards around Tufts' left extremity. The well-known Beck play was beautifully executed and might have gone for a touchdown had not Phillips cut off the flying Guarnaccia with only 15 yards intervening for the score.

Johnson sent Willis off tackle for six yards on the next play and it looked bad for Tufts for the second time

STORY CONTEST ENDS THURSDAY

The Saxonian Short Story Contest will end Thursday, Nov. 15, and manuscripts should be handed to any member of the Board by then.

The judges for the contest have been announced and will be as follows: Professor H. G. Owen, Professor D. S. Beers, and Walter J. Coates, Editor of the "Driftwind."

LISTEN FOR THE SIREN.

On next Monday at 12:40 the college fire siren will be sounded in order to test its efficiency. Although it was sounded once last year for a small fire about the time of the flood, there are a great number in the college who have never heard it. As it happens, the time chosen for the sounding of the siren is identical to that of the beginning of the rushing season.

RUSHING.

Rushing is a term well applied to the methods of obtaining new members for fraternities. At this time of year, it might be fitting to compare the freshman to a football and the whole business of pledging new members to a football game. The ball is the center of attraction and is rushed up and down the field until one team or the other succeeds in getting it across the goal line.

This is all very well and good to the spectator, but what about the freshman who is to be the center of attraction? To him it will be a time when he will have a chance to make more acquaintances and finally to choose that fraternity which he likes best and which he thinks will mean most to him. He should not lose sight of the fact that he will not always be treated as royally as he is during rushing week. Some might have the idea that this one week is the only chance they will have in which to be pledged to a fraternity. This notion is false. Every year there is someone who, being undecided at the close of the week, waits and makes his choice later. On the other hand, many men are overlooked in this first rush and receive bids later in their college life.

It is no easy matter for a freshman to make a choice between fraternities because it is difficult for him to see things as they really are and because he can not foresee how matters will turn out in the future. Therefore, he should try to assume an attitude of impartiality and thus to reason which is the best choice to make. In considering the members of a prospective fraternity, the freshman should not be influenced so much by the senior delegation, for it is not with these that he will live, but with the sophomores. He should also think of the other freshmen that a fraternity is rushing, but he should not join just because somebody else does, for a man's best friend may be a member of another fraternity and Middlebury is not so large that one loses contact with men outside of his own fraternity.

Thus in choosing a fraternity, a freshman should take an impartial attitude and not be influenced by "rushing dope." He should remember that it is better to wait in making a choice than to make a hasty one that might prove to have been unwise. K.C.P.

WHY NOT?

"No, that was the week-end I went to Tufts."

"No, the Vermont game came that week-end and I didn't have any time until Sunday night after she left."

"No, that was rushing week."

"No, I was sick after Thanksgiving and had to go home for a few days."

"Well, I'll try to, but you see I'm working all vacation."

Which one-sided conversation with variations to suit the particular student and professor will probably take place not infrequently between December 1 and 15. To anyone but an experienced and time hardened professor the excuses seem logical enough and when accompanied by a few choice details many an honest dispenser of facts and theories will succumb to the appeal.

But the savant's digestion may not be of the best either right after Thanksgiving. Details may be of no avail and another student resolves to quit procrastinating (beginning January 1.)

All of which leads up to the fact that the next few days is a good time to get busy and finish some long contemplated but never attacked piece of disagreeable work. The game, the week, and the feast will be more enjoyable both at the time and in memory with no uncompleted work in the offing.

Newspaper Writers Today and Yesterday

By RALPH E. RENAUD
(Managing Editor of N. Y. Post)

When I first broke into newspaper work 21 years ago, the college man was still somewhat exceptional in the city room—perhaps even a little suspected. Today most newspapermen have university training. This is not due merely to the fact that there are proportionally more college graduates available, but to the spreading realization that in the long run the broader outlook of a liberal education makes a better workman.

Before newspapers became the highly developed organiisms as they are today, sports, for example, were just sports. They were the province of the ex-office boy with a dash of sporting blood. He was a fight fan who followed the races and rooted for the home team and spilled the "low down" about it for his readers with a somewhat unifacile typewriter. The ex-office boy in the sports department still has his place, but the college trained golf hound, the football expert who knows the game from the inside, the tennis shark with a flare for graphic expressions, is crowding him to the lower desks.

In the old days the editorial writer who knew anything about politics was a rarity. His formula for other subjects was, "The Springfield Republican says," half a column of quotes, and "we agree with the Springfield." Today the editorial writer must know everything or be prepared to give the impression he does. It won't do when a new comet sweeps across the sky to write a sonorous piece about the wonders of the heavens. He must follow Eddington in his latest researches, grasp the theory of dobules, and think in Einstein or he can't fool his public, which knows a thing or two itself. In a word, he must know something besides words.

And just because newspapers have become so highly organized so technically developed, the metropolitan press is the poorest field of all for the beginner college trained or otherwise. New York papers don't use cubs. They don't have to. New York creates a draught like a huge furnace, and draws to itself 20, to 50 trained newspapermen for every job it has to offer.

This isn't so in the smaller towns where the pay is smaller the living cheaper and the opportunity for experience unlimited. Now and then men step directly from a school of journalism into a New York job and make good. More often they don't. If I wanted a New York newspaper career, I'd go to a college, avoid the school of journalism, try for all the college publications, and when I'd finished rustle a job in one of the smaller cities. For five years I'd accumulate as varied an experience as I could. By that time I'd figure I was doing well in the smaller town—why, I'd stay there.

OFFICIAL NOTICES

An arrangement has been made with the Deans so that Preannounced Tests will hereafter be published in the CAMPUS insofar as it is possible to do so. At a meeting of the Faculty last year a preannounced test was defined as one which would occupy the major portion of a period and which had been announced to the class and records of that date recorded with the Deans at least one week in advance of the date when it was to be given, such tests to be given not more frequently than once a month. Absences from such tests involve a loss of cuts as indicated in the book of College Regulations.

While the Campus can assume no responsibility for errors in the lists given, it will do its best to report all that have been recorded in regular fashion. For the coming week the following are on record:

Biology 11 (Men) Sat., Nov. 17.
Economics 21 (Sec. II) Tues., Nov. 20.
French 12 (Sec. IV.) Mon., Nov. 19.
French 12, Tues., Nov. 20.
French 21 (IV M) Thurs., Nov., 15.
German 11, Tues., Nov. 20.
Latin 32. 1, Sat., Nov. 17.
Philosophy 32, Tues., Nov. 20.
Philosophy 41, Mon., Nov. 19.
Political Science 11 (Men) Mon., Nov. 19.

The two one-act plays which were to have been produced at the Playhouse tomorrow evening have been postponed to Thursday evening, November 22.

PRESIDENT MOODY SPEAKS IN PARIS

President Paul D. Moody was the speaker of honor at the Holy Trinity Church in Paris Sunday, November 11. It was at the invitation of Frederick W. Beechman that Dr. Moody took part in their Armistice Day services. Holy Trinity Church is one of the most noted churches in Paris. It is in this church that the Memorial Battle Cloister is situated which was dedicated to the American soldiers that fell during the late war.

Panther Band Makes Debut On Week-end Trip to Boston

Middlebury's band performed very creditably at various engagements last week end. In their concert at Manchester Thursday night, they were well received and are assured of another concert next year. Their playing at the Alumni Rally Banquet at the Hotel Vendome in Boston the next evening did much to make the affair a success. During the meal they played college songs and after the banquet, provided an orchestra was dancing. The dance orchestra was composed of nine pieces: two trombones, two violins, drums, piano, two saxophones and a bass horn.

Their display of talent at the Tufts game was a bright light of the afternoon. Between the halves the band marched in formation forming a T in front of the Tufts stands and playing the Jumbo's alma mater. During their stay in Boston members of the band were guests at the home of various alumni.

An interesting thing happened on the trip home. When the bus stopped for oil at Healdville, a Vermont town boasting one store and two houses, it refused to function when the time came to leave. For the next three hours the store was converted into a college social hall. The owner happened to own a fiddle and the band having plenty of talent, took advantage of it and a good time was had by all. Some of the men, thinking that the chances were that the band would have to camp in some Healdville barn overnight, started to hitch hike home and they reached Middlebury in good shape that evening.

The Band will play at the Vermont game Saturday, and they will appear in their new uniforms for the first time at a home game.

HARRIERS DEFEAT ST. STEPHEN'S LAST SATURDAY 21 TO 34

Butler Makes an Unofficial Record; Meet U. V. M. This Week.

An unofficial record was made last Saturday when the varsity cross country team defeated the St. Stephen's runners on the home course. Capt. Butler led both teams home with a time of 33:13 for the six mile course. It was an ideal running day, causing both teams to give their best, making the score rather a close one—21-34.

Butler led his running mate, Dalton, by two hundred yards at the finish. Weber of St. Stephen's pressed Dalton at the tape, but was quite exhausted. Witt, Cox, and Haskins, finishing fourth, sixth, and eighth, respectively, completed the scoring for Middlebury; while the St. Stephen's scoring ceased when Pope, Fite, Ball, and Capt. Nobis crossed the line.

There was a bit of a controversy over the time, which will have to be settled by the Athletic Council. The three matches that were kept on the race registered three different times: 33:08, 33:11, and 33:13.

Their victory over St. Stephen's leaves the varsity with but one more race to run. At eleven o'clock this Saturday, November 17, the Blue team will take on Vermont over the length of the college three mile course. The freshmen will run the Green yearlings at ten over the same distance.

Over 100 Students Attend Tufts Game

Saturday afternoon found Middlebury forlorn and deserted for a large part of the college had betaken itself to the Tufts game at Medford, Mass., and many others were at the Freshman game in Burlington and other games in New England.

Fifteen members of the Women's College and 106 of the Men's College, not including the 27 members of the Band were in the Middlebury bleachers. Among the women, this included six seniors, eight juniors, and one sophomore, while there were 36 senior men, 24 juniors, 25 sophomores, and 21 freshmen.

Approximately four hundred enthusiastic alumni were present. Although the Blue and White cheering section could not be said to offer genuine competition to Tufts since the latter outnumbered them several times, they made plenty of noise.

BLIND FOOTBALL TEAM.

A football team composed of 11 blind students will play a regulation game for the first time in the history of the Connecticut School for the Blind, when the members encounter the Watkins Farm School here Saturday. Three of the linesmen have only a fanciful picture of objects and the others but one-tenth normal vision. Milan H. Palmer, former Middlebury College player, is coach.

FACULTY VOTES TO ALLOW VAGABONDING

Permission To Audit Also Given To Students of Middlebury.

Action was taken by a vote of the faculty last week, to make it possible to audit courses and also to permit "vagabonding" when interesting lectures are to be given. The term "vagabonding" and the custom it suggests has been in vogue at Harvard for some time and is extremely popular there. By means of this custom and a list of lectures which is printed daily in the "Crimson," students are enabled to visit such classes and lectures as appeal to them making it possible to obtain much interesting and enlightening material as well as giving them the chance to make the acquaintance of many members of the faculty whom they might otherwise never have the opportunity of knowing. In order to "vagabond" a lecture it is only necessary to obtain the permission of the instructor. To audit a course, that is, to take a course without credit, it is necessary to obtain the permission of the instructor and the Dean.

The action of the faculty was as follows:

"That students be allowed to attend classes regularly as auditors, provided the permission of the instructor and of the dean has first been obtained. Such students are not to take part in the class room exercises, nor make any demands upon the time of the instructor.

"Occasional visiting of classes (vagabonding) is allowed, if the instructor gives permission.

"These privileges are extended to members of the faculty, their wives, and persons regularly employed in the administrative offices, permission of the instructor being sufficient."

It is hoped that the student body will appreciate this privilege and make good use of it. In order that they may be cognizant of lectures which may be of general interest, the CAMPUS will try to print from time to time the subjects and dates of such discourses. It is hoped that the members of the Faculty will also cooperate in sending such information to the Campus as often as they find it possible to do so.

English Club Has "Ask Me Another" Meeting

"Ask me Another" was the feature of the first formal meeting of the English Club, held in the Abernethy wing of the library last Wednesday evening. Raymond Bosworth '29, conduct the meeting and asked the questions, which were compiled by members of the English Department.

Harold Bergman '29, with a score of 74, won the first prize for the evening, a book of American poems.

By the courtesy of Miss Robeson the Abernethy room is to be the regular meeting place for the English Club, and President Bosworth expressed the desire that the monthly get-together of the club be less formal and that there be some real discussion.

The topic of the next meeting is to be Eugene O'Neil, the intention being to cover as many contemporary authors as possible during the year.

Getting out a paper is a picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly or vulgar.

If we don't, they say we are adolescent and too serious.

If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we print things from other colleges we are lazy.

If we are out rustling news, we are wasting time.

If we are not rustling news, we are not attending to business.

If we don't print contributions, we lack appreciation, and the paper is a Sigma Delt, Kappa Sig, Alpha Phi sheet.

If we do print them the paper is full of junk.

Like as not some one will say we stole this from some other paper—so we did.

To say that a man has the capacity for wrong is to ground the argument that he has the capacity for good.

Dr. C. S. Adams Speaks To M.C.A. on Church and State

Dr. C. S. Adams, minister of the First Congregational Church of Burlington, spoke at a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held in Hepburn Social Hall, November 7 at 7 o'clock. Dr. Adams' subject for the evening was, "The Church and the State."

He traced down through history the ever present conflict between church and state for the sovereignity. In the Middle Ages, Dr. Adams pointed out, the church was sovereign.

He suggested three solutions to this question. First, that the state would be sovereign; second, that the church should be the sovereign; third, that there should be a free state and a free church. Joined to the second and third suggested method is the question of which church. Dr. Adams said that in Vermont the state was sovereign.

After the talk, there was informal discussion. Dr. Adams raised the question whether or not the state had the right to be sovereign. Prohibition was also discussed.

ams said that in Vermont the raised the question whether or not the state had the right to be sovereign. Prohibition was also discussed.

In summing up, Dr. Adams showed that it all came down to the great philosophical question "What is truly moral today, and what would receive the moral sacnction of the people?" Dr. Adams said that the laws must receive it in order to succeeed.

A Course On Love.

Lectures on love-making are urged by Professor A. E. Heath, of Cambridge university, for the double purpose of making class-room work more interesting while in school, and life more interesting as the students grow older.—(IP).

French Chateau Holds Tea

A tea for the students living at the French house was held Friday afternoon, November 9, in the Petit Salon of the Chateau. A novel program was presented by members of the faculty of the French School. The reading of Fisher's Une Piece Fausse by M. Jean Ehrhard was followed by a pastoral dance in costume by Mlles. Henriette Ranty and Helen Coldwell. Dr. Stephen A. Freeman read Theodore Cherche des Allumettes, a farce by Courteline. Dancing followed the entertainment.

Dean Ross Attends College Personnel Officers' Meeting

Dean Eleanor S. Ross of the Women's College, attended the Fall Meeting of the Eastern College Personnel Officers, held at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., Friday, November 9.

President James R. Angell of Yale University, as the first speaker, opened the meeting at a luncheon held in Memorial Hall, following which there were round table discussions.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia University, one of the evening speakers, gave an interesting talk on the "Recent Developments in College Personnel Work."

Ralph Delano Paine, Yale '29, who is head of the Yale Student Council Committee on the course of study, spoke on "Personnel Work in Relation to Orientation and the Curriculum," or "What the Student Wants in College."

Alchemist's Club Renews Activities

At the first meeting of the Alchemist Club this season, James Tibone '30 was elected vice president of the club to take the place of Philip Tucker ex-'30 who was elected to office last year but has not returned to college.

The Alchemist Club was organized last fall with the motive of expanding and of petitioning for a charter from a national fraternity. For this reason there are no women members of the club, but any women who are interested are invited to attend its meetings. The object of the club is to promote goodfellowship in the chemistry department. All the faculty of the department are honorary members, and Professor P. Conant Voter is the faculty adviser.

A series of successful meetings was held last spring, and the club's first season was concluded by the election of officers for the fall term. The officers are: David Waugh '29, president; James Tibone '30, vice president; Wallace Kelley '29, secretary and treasurer; Corwin Happ '29, alumni secretary.

The Alchemists will hold monthly meetings during the coming year at which they expect to have interesting speakers.

Demonstrating college spirit in the manner of the American college student would be considered very bad form at Oxford, according to Miss Katherine Ripman, an Oxford graduate, interviewed recently by the Michigan Daily. Miss Ripman said that in England the spirit for ne's school is taken for granted, while here she finds almost a professional fostering of college spirit.—(IP).

SIX YEARS OF YOUR LIFE SPENT BEFORE A MIRROR

Men do not rate with Syracuse women unless the women spend more than an hour getting ready for a date.

Out of thirty-five co-eds interviewed in one month's dormitory here, 20 of them spend an hour in preparation for a date. Five spend an hour and a half, seven spend three-quarters of an hour, two spend half an hour and one spends twenty minutes.

All the girls agree that to get ready for a formal takes at least two hours, but for the average miss, one hour is spent in bathing, dressing, manicuring and so on, when she has an informal dance or movie date.

The girls have about five engagements a week, although not every one with a boy friend. This averages about five hours a week dolling up. At least an hour a week is spent at the hairdressers making a total of six hours a week spent in sacrifice to the goddess of the boudoir.

Counting the time spent in getting ready for formals and special occasions, six years of a woman's life are spent in making her beautiful.—(IP).

To save any argument with members of his football teams as to whether or not they did the right things in the football game just finished, Coach Gauthier of Ohio Wesleyan University has moving pictures taken of each football game. Then he gathers his team to see themselves in action, and no alibis are possible.—(IP).

PANTHER FROSH OVERWHELM VERMONT BY 19-6 TO WIN STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Upstaters Unable to Check Fighting Spirit of Blue Team.

DUQUETTE, BAKEMAN NELSON, ATTIC STAR

Hessler's Eleven Has Had Successful Season; Won 3 of 5.

"A team that won't be beaten, can't be beaten."

This famous football adage was the leading factor in a smashing victory of the Blue freshmen team over the Vermont yearlings by the score of 19 to 6 at Centennial Field, Burlington, Saturday, November 10. In so doing, the freshmen broke a three year's winning streak compiled by former Green teams, and were the first to beat a Vermont freshman club since 1926. The Blue thus won indisputed title to the State championship, as two weeks previously, Norwich was defeated by 19 to 7. It is the first time in many years that a Middlebury freshman team has won over Norwich and Vermont in the same season.

After a slow start, the first quarter was all Middlebury. Vermont got to the thirty yard line after Attic had punted to the center of the field. But when Duquette grabbed a fumbled pass, the Blue got going and after that the Vermont yearlings did not look so well. Duquette broke through tackle for fifteen yards to start the parade, and then threw two passes to Conroy. The last, a twenty yard heave, was good for a touchdown, Conroy standing over the goal line to make the catch. Vermont could do little with the Blue line, and their passing was not up to snuff, several being downed for losses while the majority were incomplete. Powell, at fullback for Vermont, featured his long punts in this period and for the remainder of the game, most of his boots going at least fifty-five yards. But the Vermont ends could not stop Duquette's runbacks, and the distance of the punts was largely neutralized in consequence. Markowsky and Hess made flashy jaunts off tackle, while Attic banged the line in great fashion. Duquette was in a class by himself with his snappy running, passing and tackling. The second period showed Vermont coming back. Their backs, particularly Powell and Winant, hit the forward wall for gains, but the passing was uniformly poor and resulted in several interceptions. Bowers, the Vermont tackle, went great guns and gave his backs a lot of help in cleaning up the way for several good gains. During the third quarter it looked as if Vermont might get away with the game. Their team played inspiried football, while Middlebury showed the effects of a hard first half. Powell, Winant and Enstrom broke through the line for spectacular gains, and twice Duquette at safety, brought down Powell after the latter had broken away. On her five yard line the Blue held for three downs, but Vermont could not be denied. Aided by a Middlebury offside, Powell pushed the ball over the line by inches on the last down. After that, and for the remainder of the game, the Blue frosh took a new lease of life, and ran their opponents into the ground. First down after first down was made, and the ball was continually in Vermont territory. Duquette, although twice knocked out, did most of the carrying. The protection afforded him on his runs was particularly effective. Only dogged grit and Powell's tremendous punts saved Vermont from a bad trimming. But Duquette, Nelson, et al could not be held back, and after a long march down the field, Duquette hurled himself through the Green bulwark for a touchdown. The kick for point was blocked, but Vermont was offside and the point counted. Late in the last period, Attic intercepted a Vermont pass on their twenty-two yard line, and dashed the remaining distance for a touchdown. Goering's try for point missed by inches.

Middlebury tried five forwards, two of which were completed for a total gain of thirty-three yards, and a touchdown. Vermont earned eight first downs, while the Blue freshmen got fifteen.

Howard Duquette was the outstanding star of the game. His open field running, line plunging, passing, tackling and runbacks of punts was nothing short of brilliant.

He contributed a touchdown, point after touchdown, and threw a pass to Conroy for another six points. His play was altogether too flashy for the Vermont team to cope with, and as quarterback, he ran his men in fine fashion. Attic, at full, played a remarkably good game. He gained consistently through the line, led good interference, placed his punts well, averaged forty-eight yards on kick-offs, and intercepted a pass for a touchdown. In the line, Nelson at center, and Bakeman at tackle played great games, while the ends, Conroy and Thrasher, left nothing to be desired, and went well in tackling, breaking interference, catching passes and getting under the punts. Loveday, Davis, Johnson did yeoman work at their positions, while the substitutes, Viehman, Ragatz and Riccio did as well. Markowsky, Goering and Hess performed well over par in the backfield. In all, a team averaging 165 pounds outplayed, outfought and outgamed a heavier and more experienced Vermont club. A team of which Coach Hessler and the college may well be proud.

Their defeat at the hands of Clark School earlier in the season is offset by their victory Saturday, as Vermont had previously beaten the Hanoverians by a large score. The Plattsburg, Norwich and Vermont games were won so decisively that the Goddard defeat should be charged off to profit and loss. The Middlebury freshman team that played Saturday was more than above the average in ability, spirit and grit.

Hockey Season Closes Around Class Bonfires

All members of the Women's College interested in hockey will witness a big contest between Yale and Harvard this afternoon at four o'clock on the W. A. A. hockey field.

These two teams are composed of girls who have been out for hockey this fall. Each team will elect a captain and cheer leaders who will lead the enthusiastic fans in urging on their teams to victory. After the game, four bonfires will be lighted, one in each corner of the field, each class gathering around its own.

When the feast is over, all will gather around the Champion's fire in the center of the field where the Juniors, as champions will receive their numerals. The All-Midd team will be announced, and the list of all the freshmen who have attained membership in W. A. A. by giving the required number of hours to hockey will be read. A class song contest will close the program.

WITH OUR OPPONENTS

By ARTHUR BRUSH

Tufts 12; Middlebury 0.
Amherst 34; Trinity 0.
Springfield 14; M. A. C. 0.
R. P. I. 9; Vermont 6.
C. C. N. Y. 19; Norwich 0.
Hamilton 13; Haverford 0.
Williams 16; Wesleyan 13.

Vermont is at last coming into its own, and if their game with R. P. I. may be taken as a criterion, this Saturday should see some game. Her aerial attack nearly spelled the defeat of the Engineers at Troy last Saturday, but a field goal, kicked from the 15 yard stripe in the third quarter after the score had been tied in the second, gave the R. P. I. men a winning margin. Vermont scored her goal after a long forward placed the ball on the Rensselaer 20 yard line. Three plays, one by Robbins and two by Derose made the lone Catamount tally. An aerial attack that was a surprise did most of the ground gaining for the Vermonters; it would seem that Tully of the Vermont coaching staff, of the former Oberlander-Tully combination had been getting results.

Norwich, in her game at New York last Saturday met her second defeat of the season by the score of 19 to0 in a game in which the Cadets were completely outclassed. Goldhammer, of City College was the outstanding star of the game, making two touchdowns, one on an 80 yard run. Due to an airtight defense, the Horsemen's aerial attack failed to get anywhere, and her line was not strong enough to penetrate the New Yorkers. The Springfield gymnasts took over their old rivals, the Massachusetts Aggies at Springfield scoring their touchdowns in the second and final periods. The first score came after a Springfield man crashed through the line, blocked a punt, recovered it and raced for a tally. As the game ended the Aggies were holding the Springfield team on their own 1-foot line.

In a last half drive the Williams eleven took over the Wesleyan team in the first game for Williams in the Little Three Series. In a thrilling game in which Wesleyan twice held for downs on their one yard marker, consistent gains were made by both teams in varied attacks, although neither team showed to advantage in defense. A blocked punt, resulting in a safety in the last period, gave the Purple team the winning score.

After being defeated last Saturday by Middlebury, Hamilton turned around this week and handed out a defeat to the much stronger Haverford team, in a game which was Haverford's most of the time. Chatfield and Campbell were the stars of the game with their old rivals.

Amherst added another victory to her string, a small one at that, by defeating the weak Trinity eleven 34 to 0. The game was all Amherst's and all Grosskloss's, the men that has been doing all the good work for the Lord Jeff's this season. He had the ball most of the time and made most of the substantial gains. Games our opponents play this week:

Vermont vs. Middlebury at Middlebury.
Norwich vs. B. U. at Boston.
Amherst vs. Williams at Amherst.
Tufts vs. M. A. C. at Medford.
Springfield vs. Providence at Springfield.
Hamilton vs. Union at Schenectady.

bury used to play and about the outstanding players the college had back in '09.

Coach Beck told the gathering how much he appreciated his being with Middlebury, he said, "We have a wonderful institution but only a few people know about it. Because we have reaped the benefits it has to offer, we sit back satisfied. You have enthusiasm in your hearts but are backward in coming out with it. There are many fine men and women looking for a school to go to, so don't feel that you are boasting when you tell anyone how good Middlebury is. The praises of our school cannot be expressed in ordinary conversation.

"Our team has not been winning this year, but I am not here to offer alibis. When your team is going bad then is the time the school needs you. Find the weakness and then do what you can to remedy it. One way to improve the athletic status of the college is to influence athletes to come here and that would be surprisingly easy if only the men contemplating on going to college were approached. Another way to improve the teams is to take advantage of all the available material, a policy which is at present being worked out. In future years we expect to have a much larger squad."

After the speeches Mr. Fish called the meeting to order and Donald S. McLean '13 was elected secretary of the Boston District of the Middlebury Alumni.

TUFTS JUMBOS WIN FROM PANTHER 12-0

that afternoon until Hingston speared one of Guarnaccia's spirals and Gibbons kicked out of danger.

Huntington's fumble of the snapback in kick formation gave Tufts it second opening shortly afterward. Starting at midfield, Hingston skirted right end for 20 yards, and on the next play Phillips got loose in a dash through the center of the line and was only brought to earth by the safety man on the two-yard line. It was an easy matter for "Five Yard" Hingston to go over for the score Phillips attempted a pass for the extra point, but it was grounded.

Tufts threatened to score again in the third period after Brehaut recovered Johnson's fumble of Gibbons' punt and a nine-yard pass had brought the ball within the Middlebury 20-yard line. The Black Panther line held for downs, however, as they did a little later when a 19-yard run by Phillips had again brought the Jumbos within striking distance.

A 15-yard penalty for holding after a 10-yard sprint by Guarnaccia gave Middlebury an opening late in the third quarter. A brilliant 21-yard run by Guarnaccia and a pass, Guarnaccia to McLeod, gave Middlebury the ball on Tufts' 13-yard line. Willis ripped off a first down and then the Tufts' line made a heroic stand and held for downs.

The decisive point of the game came when Middlebury was penalized 15 yards in the latter part of the second quarter. The Panther tried to make up for lost ground by attempting a pass, but Engels of the Jumbos got in the way and nabbed the pigskin, and reached the 35 yard line before the Blue backs realized what had happened. The next three plays by Phillips and Hingston netted the Bostonians first down. The second quarter began disastrously, for four plays by Hingston, and the same number by Phillips brought the ball to the Middlebury 2 yard line. The touchdown was made on a line smash by Hingston.

Summaries by quarters:

First Quarter

Tufts kicked to Middlebury into the end zone. Ball brought to the 20-yard line. Guarnaccia round end for 8 yards. Willis, no gain. Guarnaccia through tackle for 4 yards and first down. Middlebury penalized 5 yards for off side. Huntington punts out of bounds on 48 yard line. Phillips for 4 yards. Hingston no gain. Hingston plunges 3 yards. Gibbons punts to Johnson on 9 yard line. Huntington kicks back to the 45 yard line. Willis intercepts a pass and runs to the 35 yard line. Guarnaccia carries ball on a triple pass 35 yards to Tufts 30 yard line. Tufts penalized for off side. Willis smashes the tackle for 12 yards to the 12 yard line. Two passes net 3 yards. Tobey, Tufts center out of the game on injury. Hingston intercepts a pass. Gibbons punts to the 53 yard line. Middleburry penalized 15 yards. Ingalls intercepts a pass on his 35 yard line. Hingston and Phillips for two successive first downs to Panther 33 yard line. End of quarter. Score 0-0.

Kropper has been stopping everything that has tried to get through his tackle position and his 205 pounds of beef makes huge openings for the backs. A comparatively light man plays the other tackle position, as Nilson only tips the beam at 175 pounds, but he has been playing a hard, capable game and shows much promise. Robinson, a veteran of last year's team, has been playing his usual heady game at end, and the other wing position has been taken care of by Captain Palmer and Segal.

The backfield is made up of O'Keefe, Jim Scutakes, Tim Halligan and Robbins. O'Keefe is a former center, but was shifted to the backfield this season and has been playing a fine game. His signal calling has been consistent and his defensive play steady. Robbins has been playing a slashing game at fullback and is expected to go at top speed in the Middlebury game. Jim Scutakes is a veteran of last year's team and a former Burlington High School star. Halligan is the star of the backfield and is expected to shine brightly in the Middlebury game. The forward passing attack is built around this capable halfback and whether on the throwing or receiving end Halligan has proved himself to be Rattan's best bet.

The Vermont offense has been weak all season, but in the Norwich game the Green and Gold opened up a bit and showed much latent power. The Kittens have been polishing up on their offensive plays since then and expect to have them working smoothly when they invade the Panther's lair. W. S. Y.

filled. Hasseltine and Wright have been playing well at the guard positions and now that the weakness of these places has been strengthened and with the rest of the forward wall once more at its full strength, the Kittens from Burlington should find gaining through the line a bit more than they can accomplish. The Vermont line is heavier than the Blue and White forwards, but the Panther has found this to be so in most all of the games to date and none of the opease through the bulwark what Coach Clogston has moulded out of fairly green material.

Willis will be cavorting around in a Middlebury football uniform for the last time and "Bo" is expected to put up his best game of the season. When in form, Willis is a hard man to stop and he promises to be in form for Saturday's game.

McLeod has been improving steadily and will be all set to crack the Vermont line for gains. This husky fullback has been a tower of strength on the defense all season and many a Green and Gold back will have occasion to be reminded of this fact before the game is over.

Our own "Sammy" has been the most consistent ground gainer on the team this year and has been especially brilliant in his own backyard on the two occasions that he has played there. Of course the Middlebury rooters will expect to see Guarnaccia in fine trim for the melee with the Cats.

Coaches Beck and Clogston have labored long and hard to give Middlebury a winning team. They feel that at last the time has come for them to show the results of their labors and so the Blue and White followers can expect to see the Panther bite and claw his way to heights never before reached this season. Reverses have been numerous and victories have been scare, but before the week is over we expect to see another one chalked up on the right side of the ledger.

With the slogan, "In Unity There is Strength," freshmen at the University of Utah have banded themselves together in a club called "The Arrow Club," the purpose of which is to further the downfall of "soph" superiority.

While teachers of Fredonia State Normal School were attending a convention at Syracuse for a week, the students selected their own teachers, and continued holding classes as usual.—(IP).

HISTORY OF MIDDLEBURY AND U. V. M. GAMES SINCE 1894

When the Middlebury and University of Vermont gridmen trot onto Porter Field Saturday a new chapter in the history of athletic relations between the College on the Hill and the College by the Lake will be in the making.

Athletic relations beween Vermont and Middlebury were begun in 1894 when a three game schedule was played. The first game was played October 20, at Athletic Park, Burlington, and resulted in a 14 to 0 victory for U. V. M. The second game was played at Middlebury and was a 19 to 0 victory for the home team. To break the tie a third game was scheduled to be played at Vergennes.

This contest resulted in the cessation of athletic relations until 1897 and was a victory for neither team. It was a cold day, a drizzling snowstorm making the field wet and slippery. About 150 undergraduates from Middlebury and half that number from Burlington attended the game. The Burlington team had the advantage being heavier and finally made a touchdown near the close of the first half. Before the second half had fairly begun Vermont was penalized 25 yards and refused to play. Middlebury conceded the point and after some wrangling the game was continued.

To quote from The Undergraduate, "One of the U. V. M. men went to slugging Wells, and very near the line where several Middlebury people were standing, which raised a row, in which, however, none of the students were engaged and only two or three of either team. It was mostly one man of the Vermonts who is unable to keep his temper in a game and indulges in an unseemly amount of slugging, otherwise he is a good player."

The Undergraduate, with perhaps more than necessary partialty further says, "The Middlebury team surely played in a square and manly manner, nor stopped to question any of the decisions, while the Burlingtons kicked at every conceivable point and were not satisfied with the decisions of their own coach who was referee. The Middlebury crowd, which included several boys, yelled and jeered in an uncalled for manner, and in this respect the Burlington crowd was much superior."

The next game, played in 1897 was in sharp contrast to its predecessor, being featured by the entire absence of penalties and "kicking." It ended in a 14 to 0 victory for Vermont. A second game was scheduled for the season, but no acount of it can be found.

In 1899, Vermont beat Middlebury 49 to 0. In 1900 two games were played, U. V. M. winning both. In 1901 each college scored a victory. The second game was played on a soggy gridiron behind Old Chapel.

No more games seem to have been played until 1913, when through the efforts of President Thomas the two teams were brought together at Middlebury. Since then games have been played every year with the exception of 1917 when hostilities were stopped on account of the war. Since 1913, Vermont has won 6 games while Middlebury has come out victorious in 5, and 3 resulted in ties. Vermont won last year 13 to 7.

Dr. Albert Schneider, inventor of a "lie detector" and widely known scientist and criminologist, was found dead on a sidewalk in Portland, Ore., recently. He was Dean of the College of Pharmacy of North Pacific College. Death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage.—(IP).
